Yesterday's game at National Park beween the Washington and Pittsburg clubs sulted in favor of the visitors, the score

eing 11 to 10. The contest, taken in its entirety, was one of the most remarkable that has been played at the local park for years. Lovers of hard batting were given a treat; those who dote on good fielding were satisfied, and the third part of the attendance, who always look for excitement, could not com-

Twirler Kirtley Baker was on the rubber for the Senators, and for two innings he did well, but in the third every man on the Pittsburg club took one or more turns at knocking the cover off the ball. Singles and triples seemed to be the most attractive part of the program to the Pirates, and the three-baggers generally came to the front after singles had crowded the bases. When the fusillade had quieted down with the third out it was found that ten runs had crossed the plate. During this remarkable inning the players back of Baker stood to their guns with a coolness worthy of veterans, not a misplay being made, and no signs of demoralization were visible. The Pirates hit the ball good and hard and always into safe territory, and it was simply Pirates hit the bail good and hard and always into safe territory, and it was simply impossible to get in front of it.

The Senators had been going along quietly for four innings, not a run being placed to their credit, but in the fifth they decided to partake of the cherry ple served up by Twirler Gardner. A lead of ten runs looks big, but in a twinkle, it seemed, the Washington boys had pulled up within hailing distance, eight runs being placed to their credit. Unlike the Pirates, the Senators took a fancy to singles and doubles, but, like them, these sufficed to drive the runs over the plate in bunches.

With the possibility of a victory for the Senators in sight the real fun of the game started, and those spectators who delight in scrappiness on the ball field were given a treat. The visitors, with the tremendous lead obtained in the third inning, endeavored to hurry things, and allowed themselves to be put out, as dark rain clouds were looming up, but the downpour held back, and as a result the Pirates had to fight for their lives to save the game. This situation doubtless irritated them, and when Mercer jammed into Bewerman at the home plate, knocking the ball out of the latter's hands, scoring a run, the antire laggregation, headed by Manager-Captain Donovan, rushed for the home plate to interview Umpire Swartwood. Threats, taunts and jeers filled the air, and everybody seemed to be in a fighting condition. Charges were made that Mercer had deliberately hit Bowerman in the face with his fist while sliding home, but at such exciting moments it is pretty hard to control ene's body when sliding over the plate, and there are many ways in which the Pirates' catcher could, have been struck. The trouble finally subsided and play was resumed, the game being called at the end of the eighth inning on account of darkness with the score standing 11 to 10 in favor of the Pittsburgers.

After Baker had been batted off the rubber the young local player Herring lately ber the young local player, Herring, lately signed by Manager Irwin, took up the run-ning from the center of the diamond and did well, but when the locals scored their eight runs it was thought they had more than a fighting chance and Mercer went into the game. Pitcher Gardner was also taken to the stable after the fifth and Leever replaced him, both the relieving twirlgoing to be a great fight. There are so many clubs that have a chance for the flag that no one can predict the winner. Of course, we expect to have something to say about it, but there are others. I don't think that the Bostons have a cinch. In fact, they have a harder road to travel this year than ever before. Their chance for the flag depends almost entirely on Willis, their best pitcher. If Willis can keep up his present clip, Boston will be hard to beat, but I doubt very much if he can. He is pitching the best ball in the league by far."

Harry Vorderborst said embestballs very these days.

The old rail splitter, Cy Young, will probably be on the rubber for the St. Louis club this afternoon and Willie Dinneen for is not for sale. He followed up the assertion by saying that "If any one buys it tion by saying that "If any one buys it will be myself," and it would not be at all surprising should this be the ultimate termination of the syndicate business in the east. Since Manager McGraw showed the mettle of which he and his men are made the former sole owner of the club has stuck to them faithfully. Baltimore base ball matters have improved considerably since the opening of the season, and it now looks as if the horizon was clearing. President Nick Young saw both games at President Nick Young saw both games at Batlimore Memorial day, and while there was the guest of Harry Vonderhorst. The work of O'Day and McGarr, McGarr parwas coming to him at the home plate, and that he pulled it off in artistic manner simply shows that he uses his "noodle" ticularly, having been adversely criticised by local scorers. Young was asked whether he did not think it would be better policy ler in the seventh inning. He wanted to make a quick return of the ball to Mercer and just as he drew back his arm to throw ticipated. He replied that he did not think ticinated. He replied that he did not think it made the slightest difference, and that McGarr would not be unconsciously influ-enced by his friendship for Tebeau's band.
